TRANSFERRING FUNDS

If you bring money into Canada to deposit into your bank when you arrive it is best to bring cash, or wire money into your Canadian account. If you bring a cheque payable to yourself, the bank will probably require you to wait while the cheque is cleared. This can take several weeks.

It is wise to bring cash in Canadian dollars (CAD) or traveler's cheques enough to cover one month of expenses since there will be several immediate expenses upon arrival.

To transfer funds into your Canadian account you will need to have the following information:

- Canadian Bank name and address
- SWIFT Code
- Transit number
- Institution Number
- Beneficiary Account Number
- Beneficiary Address

There is a cost for transferring funds. Check with your bank for more information.
